ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Eagle is authorized to make the following announcements, subject to the action of the July Democratic primary:

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT:
PROF. W. L. POWERS.
PROF. C. M. BETHANY.

SENATOR C. A. CULBERSON.

Senator Chas. A. Culberson has at last broken his long silence in regard to his political intentions, and announced that he was in the race to succeed himself. It has been a question with the people of Texas as to whether the senator would again be a candidate because of his long continued illness. Many thought he would not, but the senator's declaration has settled the matter and brought to an end all speculation. There is no denying the fact the senator's illness has prevented him giving the state but very slight service since his last election six years ago, and even going far back of that into his former term. If ever in the history of Texas she needs the services of both her senators it is now. While the people of the state love Senator Culberson and sympathize with him in his affliction, yet if he cannot give assurance of continued and unbroken service, he should not again seek the place. The people have been patient and long suffering, re-electing him six years ago when he was not physically able to perform his duties in the senate. Unless he now knows beyond question he will be able to serve, he should not again ask the people to elect him. Unless he resumes his seat in the senate at once and displays some aggressiveness in his service, the Eagle does not believe the people will rally to him with their old time ardor. The Eagle will itself await developments before forming any alignment.

VALUE OF LAND TERRACING.

Land owners are beginning to appreciate the value of terracing, and on every hand the movement has exponents. A few years ago the man who talked terracing was derided as if a hopeless crank. Today he is regarded as a public benefactor, which he is. Those who scoff at terracing today have no idea of the beneficial effect of such work and they will have to go along until by experience they are taught the value of it. Hunt County has thousands of acres already terraced and there are hundreds of land owners who are clamoring for the demonstrator who has directed the work in this county. Let the good work go on.—Greenville Banner.

LIVING ON THE FAT OF THE LAND.

We were expecting Ed Blackshear of the Navasota Examiner-Review to send us a "mess" of good old winter collards, and now we note from his paper that the late freezes killed them every one. Too bad. Our good old friend Captain A. J. Searcy, who still has a hog claim in Madison County, had promised us a big fat jowl to go with them.—Bryan Eagle.

Sorry to have disappointed you, Buck, but naturally we are more sorry for ourself. A good friend living on the outskirts of the city had given us carte blanche to visit his collard patch at any time and select one or as many as we wanted, and now the freezer has played smash with our cinch on high living until young garden truck comes in. Speaking of "good things," this editor has certainly been more than remembered of late. Mrs. A. F. Brigrance, one of our readers of long standing, favored us with a liberal supply of pure de cracklin' bread and stuffed sausages the other day. Talk about food for the gods, etc., but there's nothing to take the place of sausages and cracklin' bread. This week another good friend sent about ten feet of juicy, fresh smoked link sausage to the madam editor and since she was a victim of the grippie we were forced to eat the whole thing to keep them from spoiling. So you see, Buck, notwithstanding the hard luck in losing out on the collards, we have fared pretty sumptuously any way.—Navasota Examiner.

REGULAR BATHING.

The bath is not a luxury. Bathing regularly is a necessity. Regular bathing prolongs life and health.

Give the pores of your body a chance to keep you well. Under-bathing causes overwork for the kidneys and liver.

Do not bathe when you are tired out; rest must be taken first.

Nothing is more invigorating than the morning bath and a brisk rub-down.

People who work hard every day are apt to neglect the proper attention to the body.

Take good care of your physical machinery; give it plenty of water inside and out, and it will do good work for you and the community.—Exchange.

ABOUT SLEEP.

Do you sleep enough?

Most people get too little sleep.

The conditions of sound sleep are often lacking.

Two essentials are good digestion and fresh air.

In addition, there must be the necessary quiet surroundings, and relaxation.

Physical weariness (not worry) produces sound sleep.

For sleeplessness try taking a bath, but never take medicine; certain deep-breathing exercises (while in bed) will often induce sleep, as will the repetition of the Shepherd's Psalm. Try it.

Reports from Northern Mexico are to the effect that Villa is showing greater bitterness toward Americans and trying harder to engender bitterness in his followers toward Americans than toward the adherents of Carranza. Unless Villa and his leaders are captured and put out of the way at once, tales of bloodshed more horrible than any yet reported, may confidently be expected.

Read the report of the Civic League in this issue and then make up your mind that you are going to rally to the support of the ladies and help them to complete the great work they have so nobly undertaken.

Colonel George Bailey of the Houston Post stresses a man's efficiency when he becomes able to fry a "T-bone steak and manipulate a safety pin without sticking the baby.

It is your business of course as to whether or not you pay your poll tax, but somebody else will have a say in it when it comes time to vote.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Many a man stumbles over imaginary things in his path.

The dancing master is always taking steps to raise money.

One should learn to talk well—also when it is well not to talk.

Matrimonial bonds are not always a safe and profitable investment.

With the exception of a discolored eye anything hand painted is fashionable.

The girl who chooses a husband because he has the "rocks" may have a marble heart.

And the smaller the girl the larger the doll necessary to satisfy her incipient maternal instinct.

A large portion of what the world calls good luck is composed of ninety-

WIT AND HUMOR.

Wear and Tear.

Jim enjoys the distinction of living near to the only saloon in a Southern town. He also enjoys the distinction of being without an index finger to his right hand.

Came one day a stranger and asked of Jim the usual question—where was the place of refreshment? Jim pointed to it.

"Who cut dat finger off foh you?" asked the stranger. Jim looked up and down.

"Dey ain' no one cut dat off," he said. "Ah's done wo it off plintin' out dat saloon to pussons jes sech as yo'self."—New York Evening Post.

Unnecessary Delay.

The case had been dragging for nearly an hour, which was twice as long as it should have lasted in this court. A sun-browned "cracker" from Decatur had been arrested on a trivial charge, but the two officers on the case could not agree as to whether the defendant had been caught drinking moonshine or not.

"What have you to say, Peter Cooper?" the judge inquired.

"I were just thinkin' it sho' would hep matters, jedge, ef yo' all would make up yo' mind one way er t'other. Ef hit's 'guilty,' then I wanten begin servin'; ef hit's 'innercent,' I'd like to go out and finish dat Christmas spree I done started."—Case and Comment.

Sympathetic.

A recruit of the Highland Light Infantry, stationed at Malta, who spoke with a very broad accent, was sent by his color sergeant to buy a notebook. Not knowing where to find a stationer's shop, he accosted a Maltese, who couldn't speak English, as follows:

"Hey, man, can ye tell's whaur to find a beukseller's shop?"

"Me no speakee English."

"Weel, weel, my mon," returned the recruit, "ye're nae the only aye; I canna mak' muckle o't mysel'!"—Tit-Bits.

Made Some One Happy.

Here is the latest tale from the front: An Irish sergeant was sent down to the base in charge of ten prisoners. On arrival there it was noticed that the batch only totaled nine. Asked for an explanation, the man in charge said:

"Shure, he told me a tale of having a wife and five children in Germany (and meself's fixed the same with the missis and gang in Ireland), and he broke his heart crying, and so did I. We were very downhearted at the time, and to make one of us happy, sure, I just shot the blighter."—Liverpool Mercury.

The Incentive.

British Foreman Compositor—Three more of my men have enlisted this morning.

Editor—Ah! A wave of patriotism, I suppose?

Foreman Compositor—Well, perhaps that's the way to put it, but they say they would rather be shot than set any more of your copy.—Passing Show.

Family Physician—Either go South

PATIENCE WITH MEXICO.

But whatever the motives back of the demand for an immediate and radical change of policy toward Mexico, the plan has not met with the president's or the cabinet's favor. The administration plans to give Carranza the best chance he can possibly have to prove his mettle. As for congress, we hope it has a controlling body of moderates of all parties, who will stand for still further forbearance with a nation that is finding itself after an era of ceaseless exploitation of the many by the few; and that cannot with justice be held to standards of law and order such as are rightly imposed by public opinion upon nations with a different history of land tenure, relations of church and state, and assimilation of aboriginal races. At any rate, these moderates will, we think, demand that when a radical change of policy comes it must be based on proved incapacity of the best elements of the Mexican democracy, and not on the revengeful acts of a guerrilla chieftain, whose course symbolizes the worst aspects of national affairs. The present is no time to "see red," or to play petty partisan politics, or to promote ulterior ends of other nations or private group interests. There are international phases of the situation, known to the state department and to some senators, that should make it impossible for any of the latter to hesitate for a moment between standing for peace and good will and against present armed intervention. Not for the act of a mountain bandit in a region where warnings had been given to Americans, should a policy of dealing with Mexico be given up which has decidedly altered the suspicious attitude of the Iberian republics toward the United States, and has helped to make a rapprochement of the Americas possible. The wise policy for the United States, we feel sure, is not intervention, but aid to the de facto government of Mexico in making its moral authority respected throughout the regions now given over to anarchy.—Christian Science Monitor.
